Posture Support Range

The pioneering technology behind the Godrej Interio Posture Support Range is that it is designed and personalised based on your body weight. The best mattress is the one which supports the body weight when you are sleeping.

As each one of us are different, we need specific mattresses to suit our body type.

Whatever position your body finds itself while you sleep, there is adequate support to your spine to retain its natural shape and avoid needless stress at the touchpoints. A peaceful sleep hence comes naturally, leading to lasting freshness the following day. A range of mattresses that truly gives you all the support you need.

Never wake up on your wrong side.

The composition of materials used under each category is designed specifically to cater to different body types thus taking care of the pressure being generated by body-weight. The Posture Support mattress range is constructed by arranging materials with a logic developed from our research (pressure neutralising logic) to neutralise the pressure-points generated by body contours. The layers and segments are designed with materials of variable support value to take care of the body-weight variations. We have designed the mattress for three different body types:

- Lean built – LB (40kg to 60kg)
- Moderate built – MB (50kg to 90kg)
- High built – HB (80kg to 110 kg).
